What Really Makes A Great Baseball Player

Everybody has someone they wish they could meet. Some wish to see rockstars, football players, or maybe the hottest actor out of a recent movie. Although, if I could choose anybody it would be the baseball slugger Willie Mays to see how nice he is, associate with him, and, get some ~~tips~~ advice on how to be a better baseball player.

You always see athletes on television acting like gentlemen, but do you ever wonder about their inner qualities instead of how great they are. Some people like Babe Ruth are absolutely crude people, but everybody continually just doesn't care. Wille Mays on the other hand, has a smile that says it all. It is composed of happiness and joy just by the looks of it. This shows that not only is he talented, but a wonderful person.

Often, when people get in a conversation with a friend it is usually hard for them to stop chatting. I have experienced this before and know that it is true. Well, who wouldn't bother talking to Willie Mays? I can say I think the chance would be fun, and full of excitement. To talk with him about some of his greatest games and what is was like to win the World Series would be an unforgetable experience for me.

Lastly, the oppurtunity to ~~see~~ ask him about his spectacular catches, and hard hit home-runs would be amazing. I would ask him to show me how to do these things and for advice on how to ~~be~~ enhance my athletic ability. It would be learning from the best, so I could be better, and maybe* I could get I signed ball.

In concluding, I think Willie Mays would be my favorite person to meet because of his nice charactor, an unforgetable chance to talk with him, and to see his amazing athletic ability. I believe I would have the time of my life and I could get better at baseball. Willie Mays is my hero.

If you could meet anyone in the world, who would you pick? I would pick my new Japanese aunt, Mari. We've already talked in a video on the computer, but I would like to meet her in person. Here are some of the reasons why.

One reason is that we could find out more about each other's culture. I could learn more about what it's like to be Japanese, and ~~I could~~ she could find out more about what kind of things Americans do. We could learn about how we choose new leaders of our country, or what kind of laws the country has.

Another reason is that we could teach each other more of our language. I could show her more English, and she could explain Japanese, and she could also tell me how they keep track of the Japanese alphabet, and all those symbols.

So, as you can see, the one person I would like to meet is my aunt Mari from Japan. I don't know when I'll be able to meet her in person. But I hope it will be soon.
