	Notes: There are explicit connections to CCSS and WIDA domains are integrated but the established routines is so repetitive that students will lose engagement (especially if they sue this for consecutive years). Many strategies for differentiation are offered; however, many suggestions are not high quality nor do they meet the needs of students at all of the language/learning levels. All units follow the same routine of short dialogue and short article. More variety in length, text type, and complexity is needed. This does meet WIDA standard 2 (Language of Language Arts) while briefly touching on the others.

	Notes: These materials reference connections to the CCSS, although some are not well established. There is a lack of variety in the text length, genre, activities, and skills, which can cause students to lose engagement. Because some skills are so frequently repeated, other grade levels skills are not addressed (e.g., RL 7.3, RI 7.9, RL 7.10). There are strategies for differentiation included for nearly each activity. However, many of them are not high quality, nor do they meet the needs of a range of language learners. These materials are recommended, given that teachers supplement with other longer, varied readings and activities.

12/31/19	Notes: Again, there is alignment to WIDA for the Standard 2, the Language of Language Arts. However, through careful analysis of the materials, many weaknesses were found. The four language domains are present in all units. However, most of the activities are too supported (i.e., sentence frames throughout and short, simple texts) for high-level students. This may not lead to these students reaching a higher level of proficiency. Conversely, when students are given open writing prompts, there are not enough structures for students, or teachers. The writing often seems disconnected from the reading. When asked to create a poem on page 125, there are no models and it references an unknown reading book. Additionally, there are weak rubrics with unclear scoring. Furthermore, several CCSS are not addressed (SL 8.2 & 8.3, RL 8.7-8.10, RI 8.9). Key Features: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Units are organized by concept and Big Questions - Consistent plan includes dialogues and nonfiction reading passages to practice vocabulary and comprehension skills - Language and Comprehension pages focus on skills - Collaborative Big Question activities encourage language development and build confidence coherent lesson plans that organize instruction around clear, attainable language and content objectives

	Notes: As previously noted in earlier grades for this set of materials, it was found it meets WIDA standard 2 sufficiently but weaknesses exist. The routine is repetitive, too supported, and prohibits student engagement (especially higher-level students). Themes and content are engaging and appropriate, as in debate, but there are concerns in regards to how the supports/scaffolds do not diminish as the text progresses. For example, texts should get longer and use more complex language and sentence frames should become more sparse. Another concern is about long term ELL's using this program for multiple years because it is so repetitive and predictable (follows the same format in each grade) that they will disengage. They also may not reach grade level proficiency due to the aforementioned gaps, etc. Additionally, some CCSS are not met, such as RL 9-10.7, RL 9-10.9, and RL 9-10.10. With all that said, there are many positives and this would be good to use if heavily supplemented.

	Notes: Again, there is a strong alignment to WIDA Standard 2. There are gaps in alignment to CCSS (e.g., RI 9-10.9, RI 9-10.7, W9-10.9, SL 9-10.5). It would be nice to see the scaffolding diminish as both the grade levels progress and the text within a grade level progresses. Topics and themes are engaging and grade level appropriate, but the themes are too often repeated from grade to grade. These materials are recommended with hesitation. Teachers would need to supplement with different, authentic texts and other forms of media in order to engage students and meet CCSS.

This material aligns well to WIDA Standard 2 but it also addressed several of the other standards. All of the texts used is non-fiction so it is recommended supplementing with fiction texts. Key Features: Developed with Dr. Kate Kinsella, one of the nation's leading scholars on instruction and achievement of secondary English learners in grades 6-10, English 3D is an English language development program designed to ensure proficiency in the "language of school"—the academic vocabulary, speaking, listening, and writing vital to success in school and life. The Goal of the program is to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> •Engage students cognitively and linguistically in every lesson phase through structured, accountable responses and consistent, interactive instructional routines. •Explicitly teach high-leverage, portable language including vocabulary, sentence structure, and grammar that students can apply in academic and social contexts. •Offer daily contexts for students to productively interact with peers applying advanced social and academic language, critical thinking skills, and pragmatics. •Equip students with the language, knowledge, and skills to tackle the informational reading and writing demands of state and Common Core standards and assessments. •Make regular connections between course-work target language and literacy skills and the demands of college and the professional workplace. •Improve scholarly demeanor, study skills, and habits through modeling, accountability, encouragement, and high expectations. •Provide constructive, respectful, and timely feedback on language use, literacy skills, and scholarly comporment. Cengage Learning 12/31/19	Inside	Short	2014	6-8		Recommended as a comprehensive LEP program All Levels and Libraries as one program
Notes: We highly recommend for levels 2-5. It clearly addresses WIDA and CCSS. Key Features: Inside is an intensive reading program for middle school students. The program is built to help all students achieve success on the Common Core with National Geographic content paired with multicultural literature using either a digital or print pathway. Inside is structured around five levels: Fundamentals Volume 1, Fundamentals Volume 2, Level A, Level B, and Level C. The fundamental levels incorporate the basics of reading, language, and writing, whereas Levels A, B, and C provide more in depth coverage of literacy and language. At any level your students will be exposed to three types of age appropriate texts: instructional, complex, and independent. A balance of informational texts and literature are provided throughout the program. Students are engaged with paired selections from a wide variety of genres for including: National Geographic articles, narrative nonfiction, expository texts, digital genres, arguments, contemporary literature, and classics. The program also features Common Core exemplars as well as multicultural characters and authors. Selections in Inside are divided into manageable chunks. Key vocabulary is highlighted. Labels, captions, graphics and callouts support comprehension for all students. Frequent comprehension checks with questions focused on text evidence help to focus the reader. Selection recordings and fluency models are provided to aid students in listening and reading comprehension while increasing reading and language levels. Leveled Libraries, Content Libraries, and Complex Text Libraries provide students with multiple resources to access text at different reading and language levels. Multi-level strategies are provided throughout instruction to help students at all levels understand the content, text features, comprehension skills and vocabulary. Assessment tools to monitor progress and make instructional decisions for individual students allow teachers to make accommodations and modifications at point of use. Inside features a full array of assessments including those to prepare students for Common Core testing. Assessments throughout the school year monitor progress, determine student gains, and measure end of level progress. The eAssessment platform enables teachers to administer tests online and have immediate access to results and re-teaching prescriptions. The program also gives teachers and administrators access to graphic reports and multiple views of student performance. Placement tests measure phonics and decoding ability, determine reading level, and aid in program level placement. During and after instruction, Quick Checks, Selection Tests, and Unit Tests are provided for timely information to target instruction, measure skills mastery, monitor progress, and inform teachers on reteaching prescriptions, if necessary. Finally, Summative Assessments, Reading Lexile Gains Tests, and Reading Fluency Measures provide information on mid- and end-year achievement. Program contains additional materials for different levels for both student and teacher

	Notes: We highly recommend for levels 2-5. It clearly addresses WIDA and CCSS. Key Features: Inside is an intensive reading program for middle school students. The program is built to help all students achieve success on the Common Core with National Geographic content paired with multicultural literature using either a digital or print pathway. Inside is structured around five levels: Fundamentals Volume 1, Fundamentals Volume 2, Level A, Level B, and Level C. The fundamental levels incorporate the basics of reading, language, and writing, whereas Levels A, B, and C provide more in depth coverage of literacy and language. At any level your students will be exposed to three types of age appropriate texts: instructional, complex, and independent. A balance of informational texts and literature are provided throughout the program. Students are engaged with paired selections from a wide variety of genres for including: National Geographic articles, narrative nonfiction, expository texts, digital genres, arguments, contemporary literature, and classics. The program also features Common Core exemplars as well as multicultural characters and authors. Selections in Inside are divided into manageable chunks. Key vocabulary is highlighted. Labels, captions, graphics and callouts support comprehension for all students. Frequent comprehension checks with questions focused on text evidence help to focus the reader. Selection recordings and fluency models are provided to aid students in listening and reading comprehension while increasing reading and language levels. Leveled Libraries, Content Libraries, and Complex Text Libraries provide students with multiple resources to access text at different reading and language levels. Multi-level strategies are provided throughout instruction to help students at all levels understand the content, text features, comprehension skills and vocabulary. Assessment tools to monitor progress and make instructional decisions for individual students allow teachers to make accommodations and modifications at point of use. Inside features a full array of assessments including those to prepare students for Common Core testing. Assessments throughout the school year monitor progress, determine student gains, and measure end of level progress. The eAssessment platform enables teachers to administer tests online and have immediate access to results and re-teaching prescriptions. The program also gives teachers and administrators access to graphic reports and multiple views of student performance. Placement tests measure phonics and decoding ability, determine reading level, and aid in program level placement. During and after instruction, Quick Checks, Selection Tests, and Unit Tests are provided for timely information to target instruction, measure skills mastery, monitor progress, and inform teachers on reteaching prescriptions, if necessary. Finally, Summative Assessments, Reading Lexile Gains Tests, and Reading Fluency Measures provide information on mid- and end-year achievement. Program contains additional materials for different levels for both student and teacher.
