

Migration west

Clarification

My Father moved alot growing up as a kid and then some, his name is Anthony. He has lived on his own for a long while, before he was the age of 18. My father's parents were definitely not considered role models for my father, and being that they were always drunk, they did not want my father around. Along with the rest of their kids, including Anthony's step-brother, Jeff. There was a large difference in age between the two but they grew up together and my father had raised him the best he could even when he had his financial struggles. Growing up from a child to adult my father has moved more than 22 times, mainly in California. He was born in 1967.

Age of 6

My father was in san diego at the beginning, he then moved to colorado where he flunked third grade dued to his prejudice teacher whose credentials for teaching were removed, later he moved to scottstailer AZ, There he attended International Private school which was named Judson international boarding school. From there he could not recollect why but he moved from AZ to oceanside,vista,colorado,vista,CA-escondido, then finally mountain home.

Idaho-Mountain home, 20

He did move to Idaho but not permanently, He was there to take care of his sister's child. She had married a man who had given her a child then left her to go to the military for 7-8 months, also leaving her with financial problems. Once he came back to Vista my father moved again to Colorado where he lives in his own apartment.

Colorado 21

After helping his sister in Idaho he had moved to Vista for about a month. Later he moved to Colorado so he could buy his own apartment so he could stay away from what his family had owned. At this time he didn't go to high school. He was abandoned by his family and did not attend high school. Unfortunately this would hurt him in the long run.

Finding a home 22-26

After colorado, my father could not afford the cost of his house because he didn't go to highschool he wouldn't have a well payed job. So he left colorado to go and find cheaper rent in apartments until he was able to balance it out the rent and his pay. Later he wouldn't find what he was looking for but it worked. He had moved to San Markus where he would find a job at a woman's shoe store in a mall. The pay was much more than what he is making now but in california everything costed a little more than they should. His apartment he lived in was asking $1600.00-$1800.00 per month. Sunrise Village

Fallbrook Then Vista

Not being able to keep up with the rent at Sunrise village, he moved to fallbrook. Where the rent was much cheaper and it was a single studio. My father never told me why he left Fallbrook but he moved back to vista, to his family's home. That is where he met Anita. They fell in love but later things hadn't worked out. After living there for sometime he left again to live away from his parents properties.

Home, 1 33

My dad moved again to oceanside, where he would meet my mother. He had been recommended by a nurse to work in a caregiver's home. Alongside him was his co-workers. Though they all were new, most were girls and there was few boys. The men could not keep up with the demands the boss was asking, with the women making quick work of feeding, daily pills, caregiving, & making beds. The women would almost be done with their lunch break by the time my father made the beds. It was considered a competition between the two. Later after Rosalinda, my mother and my father fell in love they had stayed a little in california till eventually the moved to Idaho.

Home2 aged to 50

After he had moved to Idaho he left it up to my mom where we would live. It wasn't much of a good idea because she landed us in a dead-end street. Which I guess meant something to my father as he never left state again. We modified the house that was being built for us and once it was finished we had bought it along with a dog. Her name is Hikka and she had grown up with me since I was a child. She had lived longer than the average age for akitas and died last summer.