Mallard Ducks

In winter, many birds fly to warmer places. Some mallard ducks fly south to stay warm. Others stay in the same place all year. In spring, some go north to have baby ducks.
In winter, the bottom of the pond is warmer than the top. Frogs hibernate, or rest, on the bottom.

After the winter ends, birds return. New plants grow. Animals have new babies.